The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3, 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Decio in view of Chen and further in view of Lai Ganguli for reasons of record.

Applicant argues that there is no assurance that the product of Decio in view of Chen and Lai Ganguli would have the polyphenol content of the claims. There is no requirement in applicants' specification to utilize the deodorizing process of Chen. Further there is no indication in the specification of the unobvious difference between a deodorized polyphenol content of less than 10 ppm and a polyphenol content of more than 10 ppm. Applicant argues that none of the references show an olive oil refining temperature that can be used to obtain an olive oil that contains polyphenol that does not have a perceptible odor. Applicant also argues that there is no suggestion in the references to the use of the olive oil in a spread. This has been considered but is not persuasive. To select an olive oil with less olive oil odor would have been an obvious way of preparing a spread product that tastes more like butter rather than olive oil. To select an olive oil with the level of polyphenol of Lai Ganguli would have been an obvious way to enhance the oxidative stability of the oil and to provide added health benefits (note page 2, lines 20-27).

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Decio in view of Chen and further in view of Lai Ganguli as applied to claims 1-3, 11 and 12 above, and further in view of Baileys at page 67 for reasons of record.

Applicants' arguments are directed to the rejection of claim 1 and so no additional arguments need to be addressed.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
